Donald Stuckey stated that he received correspondence from the attorney for RES Polyflow requesting a change to the Development Agreement and essentially substantially change the tax abatement. With this change, RES Polyflow would get a lot more money, which is Ashley’s decision; however, it changes the payback of the loan. Mr. Stuckey said that it would probably extend the loan four (4) to five (5) years. James Crowl clarified that instead of seven (7) years, payback would happen in possibly eleven (11) or twelve (12) years. Donald Stuckey said that he responded to RES Polyflow’s attorney stating that he didn’t think the Steuben County Commissioners would be excited about extending the loan. Mr. Stuckey said that he wanted to make sure the Commissioners were aware and that his response was on base. He said that the Commissioners would have to sign the agreement and that agreement is conditioned upon the County Council allocating the $1.5 Million. Lynne Liechty asked why RES Polyflow was requesting this change. Donald Stuckey said that in his opinion, from what he has observed, they are undercapitalized and they are trying to get every dollar they can.

Mary Allred, EMS Director, requested permission to move forward with the purchase of a new ambulance to replace the ambulance that was totaled. Ms. Allred said that the insurance reimbursement was for $166,500.00 so she is requesting the difference. She said that in order to purchase a new ambulance, an additional $70,000.00 -

$75,000.00 would be needed. Ms. Allred said that in the past the ambulance specs have required a US manufactured ambulance. She said that two (2) companies have merged and they are now considered a Canadian based manufacturer. Ms. Allred requested to remove the US manufactured requirement from the ambulance specs. Lynne Liechty made a motion to open up the bidding process to companies outside of the US. James Crowl seconded that motion and the motion carried with two (2) ayes.

Kim Meyers, Auditor, asked where the new ambulance was going to be paid from because it has not been budgeted for. The Commissioners requested the Auditor to determine what fund would be best. It was determined by the Auditor after the meeting that the insurance reimbursement and the additional appropriation would be in the Cumulative Capital Development Fund.

He said that there is a purchase of $720.00 that needs to be made, but will only be made if he receives the funds. Lynne Liechty made a motion to approve the grant application. James Crowl seconded that motion and the motion carried with two (2) ayes.

Matt Meersman, St. Joseph River Basin, submitted a request for a 2019 allocation in the amount of $6,520.00. The Commissioners accepted the request for consideration.

Mr. Meersman said that the allocation request is based on the operating budget and is split up proportionally based on land area. He said that 76% of Steuben County drains to the St. Joe of Lake Michigan. Mr. Meersman said right now because of the way things have been in the past, the Maumee River Basin Commission gets 93% of the County’s Watershed Management Fund. He said that he doesn’t want to see resources go away from Maumee River Basin, but he hopes they can get to where the St. Joe River Basin is in the same position and to where they are adding value to the County in the way that the Maumee River Basin Commission has. Mr. Meersman said that he has gotten the other counties on board with the funding based on the land area.

Alisa Mills, Community Humane Shelter Executive Director, spoke to the Commissioners regarding their accomplishments in the past year. Ms. Mills introduced Lisa Caudill, current Board President and Jackie Delagrange, the incoming Board President. She reported that they are in their new building and it has changed how they are doing things. She said that they work really hard on population control and assistance. Ms. Mills said that they continue to pick up strays and submitted a report to the Commissioner regarding those numbers. She said that they work with the public on proper animal care, spaying and neutering because it helps the County as a whole, keeping the population down and cutting down on the intake. In 2017, Steuben County had 647 animals picked up with a total intake of 2,268 animals. She said that 1,493 of those animals were then adopted out. Ms. Mills stated that they work with other shelters to place different types of animals and those numbers are not included in Steuben County’s numbers.

Ms. Mills reported that Steuben County’s 2017 fee for service is in the amount of $72,056.39 at fifty percent (50%) support of the animals listed under Steuben County. The Commissioners accepted the request for consideration.

Ms. Mills reported that the ASPCA Destination Certification was obtained by the Community Humane Shelter. She said that helps bring people to Steuben County from outside of the area. She said that they are also working with people that have fed colonies of cats. She said that the colonies are fed every day and they are making sure that they are healthy and fixed. She said that when they do a trap and release they clip the ear when the animal is fixed. She said that any Steuben County Resident can get their dog or cat fixed for $30.00 plus $13.00 for a rabies certificate. James Crowl asked what happens if a person that has a colony of cats wants to get rid of them. Ms. Mills said that it would be similar to a hoarding situation. She said that they trap everything and make the decision on a cat by cat basis whether it is adoptable or not. Commissioner Crowl asked what fees are associated with that process. Ms. Mills said that it depends on the person. She said that they ask if the owner can do the $30.00 apiece and if they can’t, they try to work on a group rate.

James Crowl asked what plans the Shelter had for the old structure. Alisa Mills said that right now it is being used as storage and if they would have an outbreak of some kind, it would be used as a backup quarantine. She said that they are still working on the plans regarding what they want to do with the building. Ms. Mills said that they have turned all of the utilities down and if they need to, they will turn it back up so right now the expenses are very minimal.

George Pifer asked if the Shelter accepts dogs from different parts of the United States. Ms. Mills said that they do because Steuben County wants more dogs so they work with other shelters where the animals are at risk of euthanization. Ms. Mills said that those numbers are not included in the reports. Mr. Pifer asked if the Shelter was paid to receive those animals. Ms. Mills said that they are not and the costs are covered by the generous donations of the public and is not submitted to the County as a cost. Alisa Mills said that they normally do not accept additional bully breeds and hounds because there are an abundance of those in Steuben County already.

She said that the first training costs $3,595.00 with no travel costs since it is an online seminar. Ms. Sumney said the second training would cost between $945.00-$1,095.00 with varying hotel and flight costs. He said that Work Release has a slowdown coming up in about a month and that would be a good time to have the mold removal done. Mr. Hays said that he will come to the next Commissioners’ meeting on July 2 for official approval. He said he would like to have permission to submit a request to County Council for an additional appropriation for the maximum amount the entire project could cost so he would be on the Council’s agenda for July 10. He said that he would like to recommend accepting the quote in the amount of $2,680.00, received from Adam Sholl even though it is not the lowest quote. Mr. Fair said that he recommends Mr. Sholl due to the fact that a crew will be on site instead of only one (1) or two (2) people. Lynne Liechty made a motion to accept the quote from Adam Sholl in the amount of $2,680.00 based on Mr. Fair’s recommendation. James Crowl seconded that motion and the motion carried with two (2) ayes.
